Living Well Foundation Announces Grant Cycle

The Board of Directors of the Living Well Foundation announces that a Grant Cycle for 2023 will open April 15, 2023, to accept letters of intent, with applications completed by May 28, 2023. All requests will be submitted through the online software portal on the Foundation website.

With continuing awareness of the ongoing recovery and the impact to populations from the pandemic, and the health and well-being challenges that continue in the service area, the Foundation seeks applications from qualifying organizations which will have impact for the region. Grant applications should address one or more of the identified priorities of healthy lifestyles, access to healthcare, special needs of children and youth, or suicide prevention/intervention. The Foundation advises that large impact projects which have collaboration or matching funding and which are sustainable over time will offer more opportunities for issues to be addressed. Programs or services which are focused to the health and well-being of populations and improvements or innovative solutions for medical, dental, or behavioral/mental health will be considered. Creative new programming or solutions in the identified priorities are of interest for this funding cycle as well.

The Living Well Foundation is a non-profit public charity created from the sale of Glenwood Regional Medical Center in 2006. More information can be found on the Foundation website, www.livingwellfoundation.net, under the Grants menu, or by calling the Foundation office at 318-396-5066.
